Interesting From Start to Finish, Victory For The Boys.

On last Saturday afternoon one of the most interesting games of base ball ever played on the grounds of the most interesting games of base ball ever played on the grounds of the Lindaay-Wilson was pulled off between the married men and tone who have not yet taken that solemn vow, but composed largely of eligibles for the bond of union. The score stood eleven to eight in favor of the youngsters, too small a margin to be considered as sweeping victory or discouraging to the slugers of years gone by.

A large crowd was present and all seemed to enjoy the game, and it was the more enjoyable on account of the good will and courtesies that were manifested throughout the contest.

Fred Hancock umpired and no contention or discords arose over his decisions. There were several of the married men who showed that they were not only has-beens, but are still able to measure up to their best days of single blessedness when it comes to playing ball, but several gave evidence of being a leetle too stiff in the jints, so to speak, and consequently lost in scoring. At any rate the first effort.

Melvin spent the night there, and many jokes were cracked by both that evening.

But Melvins next escapade did not end so pleasantly. He applied for the school at the 'grant holler' school house, and the trustees promised it to him. He accordingly drew up a contract, and had it signed by two of the trustees. The two would be teachers had for some time been mortal enemies, and each one was as brave as Julius Cesar. Before the day for the beginning of the school, each one had learned of the situation, and both men were expecting trouble. The day arrived, and both teachers were on hand with a goodly number of adherents in the way of scholars. The teachers had but little to say to each other. The house had but one door, a broad one, and the teachers drew a chalk line from the middle of the door in front, to the middle of the office of the cross, and the teachers drew a chalk line from the middle of the door in front, to the middle of the fear. ### A BIG SALE.

Lively Bidding and Property Goes at Satisfactory Prices at Russell Springs.

The Commissioner's Sale at Russell Springs, on April the 29th, was well attended, and the property sold at prices indicative of the faith people have in the future of that thrifty little city. The Master Commissioner sold the Russell Springs Hotel and 47 acres adjoining it for $1856: He also sold 9 lots of ½ acre each, for residences that brought from $100 $250 per lot. The entire sale amounted to $8219. The Hotel went at a great bargain and the purchasers, Mr. Hop and Cornelison Stephens are fortunate in securing it. The lots were bought by parties who will build neat residences in the near future and thus add to the value and growth of that thrifty city.

future and thus add to the value and growth of that thrity city.

At present the population is between 500 and 600 and the growth steady and substantil. With a splendid school conducted by progressive young men, a Bank in which the people have implicit faith, the large and well assorted stocks of goods handled by thrifty, progressive business men, the good Hotel accommodations, fine water and backed by a country of good resourses and honest energetic people; Russell Springs is bound to become a larger place.

Here's hoping that its prosperity may continue and that its interests may broaden.

ELECTROLYSIS OF THE CHRISTIAN.

It is said that the metal of the elevated railway in New York, and on Brooklyn bridge is in danger of being weakened by electrolysis, because of the leakage of the electric current from the trolley and electric light lines. This electrolysis goes on unseen and quietly. Its existence can only be known by testing the metal. If it was allowed to go on dire results would follow, and lives be lost.

Public worship is also being weakened by electrolysis caused by the "Get and Gain" spirit of the age. It goes on unseen and quietly. It begins by feeling "more like staying at home than attending church," by imagning "we can be just as good Christians if we do not attend the prayermeeting," when the fact of the business is, we should attend both.

The true Christian longs for public worship and the communion of saints. When we shall lose this relish electrolysis has begun.

There's a beautiful city in heaven I'm told,
And Jesus, my Savior, is there,
And to all who are faithful, dear Jesus has said;
A mansion for you I'll prepare.

And to all who are faithful, dear Jesus has said;
A mansion for you I'll prepare.
Then meet me in heaven around the white throne
Where all the redeemed ones shall dwell;
No sickness nor sorrow shall ever be there,
Its glories my tongue cannot tell.

Its gories my tongue cannot ten.

And the beautiful city it needeth no sun,
No moon and no stars e'er shine there;
For it's the glory of God upon his white throne,
That lighten its streets every where.
Then meet me in heaven around the white throne,
Where Jesus, my Savior, doth reign,
And all the redemed ones His praises doth sing
And evermore with him remain.

And beautiful city has streets of pure gold,
By sinners they've never been told,
And sinner, poor sinner, you cannot go there,
Unless you seek pardon of God.
Then meet me in heaven around the white throne
With Jesus, dear Jesus to dwell;
With all the redeemed ones His praises we'll sing
In triumph o'er death and o'er hell.

In trumph o'er dean and o'e hear.

And the beautiful city has gates of pure pearl,
Those gates are now standing ajar,
And Jesus, my Savior, is now bidding you come,
Though you may have wandered afar.
Then meet me in heaven around the white throne,
With loved ones who've gone on before;
With crowns on our brows, and with palms in our hands,
We'll sing his praises evermore.

Through that city of gold runs the river of life,
As crystal its waters are clear;
It runs from the throne of my Savior and King,
And brother, please meet me up there.
Yes, meet me in heaven around the white throne,
With loved ones his praises we'll sing,
Through endless eternity with Him we'll reign,
Each moment new pleasure will bring.

On the banks of this river the tree of life grows, Right there in the city of God;
And the leaves of this tree heals the nations of woes,
Its fruits are like the manna of God.

And the leaves of subsections of God.
Then meet me in heaven around the white throne,
No darkness shall ever be there;
And the cusses of sin forever are gone,
Oh, brother please meet me up there.

is undertaking to show to the people of this State the great good of a fair square deal with transportation companies, operating in the State, and to point out the inestimable value of encouraging new lines of road, whether built by existing companies or by new ones. In the face of existing stringent legislation in other States against railroads, the Board of Trade believes that Kentucky now has an opportunity by fair and encouraging legislation, to secure unprecedented activity in railroad building and the development of our varied re-sources in every part of the State. One of the inducements favored, is a ten year exemption from taxation, State, county municipal, of all new railroad milage built in the State either by existing companies, or by other companies or individuals desiring to come into the State. It appears to us that it is a great time for cool, deliberate action. While it can be shown that justice would not release any new industry or enterprise, from tax, whether built and operated by an individual or a corporation, yet it has been the policy of many thrifty municipalities to offer such inducements. So far as our knowledge of such things go, we can not say whether such a move as above outlined, ever had such broad latitude, but it appears to us that such a move would re-sult in great good, and within a few years the people and the State would be paid back many times in the great development that would follow. We believe it the time for Kentucky not only to be wise, but just to her own interests, and to take an own interests, and to take an advance step to develop her great resources. This cannot be done without the building of more roads, and too exacting or hostile legislation will not result in securing new roads.

The nomination of Governor ughes, of New York, by the Hughes, of New York, by the next National Republican con-vention, is predicted by Mr. Watterson. Hughes seems to be hewing to the line, and whether he becomes the nominee or not. he is an official that is attracting attention and growing into the attention and growing into the confidence of the people. While at present the people are watching the movements of Taft, Fairbanks and Forraker, yet they may disappear from the list of probabilities, and Governor probabilities, and Governor Hughes or Senator Lafollett walk off with the prize. That Senator from Wisconsin is no little fellow and the truest, ablest reformer in the Republican party.

on April the 27th, a severe cyclone swept over a part of Texas. The town of Denning was almost swept from the earth and several lives were lost. Mr. Nell's home was in the country, but he happened to be in the fatal spot within the path of the cyclone. Its path did not reach his home, so the rest of the family are unhurt. Commissioners have this day been appointed to change and lay off another voting precinct in this county, and they will be in seasion at the Court House in Columbia, Saturday, the 11th day of May. If any one along the line of any voting precinct in the county desires to be changed to another precinct they can make their complaint to said Commissioner on the above date. The law only allows 350 votes to the precinct, and some exceed that number, and that is the reason for changing and creating a new precinct.

GLENVILLE, KY.

Well, I see something in the Adair county News every week since the adjournment of our Fiscal Court condemning the action of that court for not levying a sufficient amount of tax on the people of Adair county for the betterment of roads. Yes, they say a majority of that court re-fused to vote a tax on the wealthy citizens of the county, who were anxious to be taxed for the build-ing of roads. And they further say, that the court failed to ap-propiate anything for the benefit of roads, and they also try to arouse the prejudices of the laporing classes against the court because the law requires them to work the roads six days each year, and lastly they undertake to burlesque the court by saying that they proposed to build a wall around the court house at the expense of the county. Now when we come to consider the last action it is about in keeping with all their other statements. for the court knew in the first place, that the majority of wealthy people in this county have their surplus money invested in government bonds, and consequently could not be taxed in proportion to their real wealth as others who have not a suffi-ciency of means to invest in that way, and after ascertaining the amount of surplus in the county treasury for the benefit of county roads, the court doubtless come to the conclusion that it was sufficient for the present, and that it mattered not how much they voted on the people to build roads, it would not abolish the law requiring all men between the ages of eighteen and forty-five to work the roads six days in each year.

And when the court come to consider the question of building the wall around the court house the wall around the court house they found it was up and com-pleted, and behold, when they come to investigate the matter the Commercial Club had laid the foundation before the court convened and completed it when they presented the proposition to have the court levy a tax on the county stfficient to lay four pike roads in four diffirent directions for a distance of two miles from Columbia, and complete them in 1907, and strengthened it, as they supposed, by the proposition to allow them to begin a pike anywhere they wanted to in the anywhere they wanted to in the county, provided the people along the route would help by paying three hundred dollars per mile. in addition to their proportional part of the tax, and provided further, that the rock that should be used to grade the road thus built should be crushed to a uniform size so as to exactly go through a certain ring.

The fact is, the Commercial Club and their adherents have built the wall so high and so strong, that they can't climb over it and persuade the majority of that court to vote a tax on this county for the special benefit of bond holders and corporations, and when the Club goes to pull and when the Only goes to plan down the wall they have erected over the heads of that court, spirits will arise from within that will inspire the laborers and tax payers of this county with the same sentiment that actuated the poet when he added the chorus to his song, saying, "I'll be here, Yes, I'll be there."

If we send a representative from this county and Cumber-berland this year, to the legislature, I believe it should be some of the members of our Fiscal Court, who we know are not con-taminated with the idea that where you lead I will follow, but have the manliness to express their convictions and the courage and force of character to stand by them. ### HEALDTON, I. T.

Dear Editor:

I notice in your paper, letters from most every place, except Indian Territory, and if you will give me space in your valuable sheet I will give you a few items in regard to the new state.

The weather here has been very disagreeable since Easter, it having been uncommonly cold. We have what the citizens call northers which blow up so suddenly, that I know no better way to give you an idea of their suddenness except to quote from an old mover I saw recently. He said, "I had stopped for the night, had started my fire and my coffee was boiling nicely, when one of these northers came up so sudden and with such severity that the coffee on the north side of the pot was frozen, while that on the south side continued to boil nicely." Such has been the weather since Easter until to-day. Farmers have been delayed greatly by such conditions Most all of them in this part of the country are done planting cotton, but they report a very bad stand. Corn has been plowed once, but it is looking yellow and sorry.

Since I have been in Indian Territory, I have been employed in a government school at this Healdton is located about 25 miles from Ardmore, the metropolis of Indian Territory. It is one of the oldest towns in the Chickasaw nation.

Ardmore is a growing town, eing a railroad center and also surrounded by a rich farming

It seems that Kentucky has contributed her share of the pop-ulation of Indian Territory. I am glad to say that Kentuckians here are not unknown, either. The most prominent men we have are Kentuckians. Of these I may mention the Bledsoes from Cumberland county; Tom Rexroat, from Russell county. The Skipworths and Kendalls from Cumberland county, H. H. Brown, one of the leading lawyers, of Ardmore, from Morgan county, Chas. Evans, Supt., of Ardmore City Schools, Prof. Canterburg, principal of Ard-more High School, and Hon. Lee Cruce, who is almost sure to be the first Governor of the new

It would be in order, I think, I can only call to mind the to state here that politics is the names of three of the magistrates chief industry in the new state, of this county, dut I know from their action in the court before half so many candidates in all the mentioned. that they are more of electrons I.

people of the county that they to Government and Congressmen will protect their interests and must be filled and the aspirants for each particular place are not

Of course, the warmest part is among the Democrats, whose primary will be held June 8th. As I have already stated, how Lee Cruce from Kentucky is the leading candidate for Governor. He has one or two opponents, but they are so far behind that they need not be in the race Frantz, the present Governor of Oklahoma, is the Republican op-ponent and Ross, the socialist candidate.

Of course the Republicans can not hope to win after such a Democratic landslide in the election for delegates to the Constitutional Convention. Out of 112 delegates the Democrats elected 99. Oklahoma has, or will have, (if Mr. Roosevelt does not turn it down) a Democratic Constitu-tion. The people of Oklahoma and Indian Territory were cer-tainly tired of the Republican rule of graft and greed, shown in the election.

The Republicans did all in their power to defeat the Democrats and write the Constitution, by using all the advantage they already possessed. They shoestringed the districts, but failed to get their delegates. They are now doing all they can to keep the people from ratifying the Constitution. The last Congress failed to remove the restrictions from Indian lands, thinking that by so doing the people would not want state hood as there would be no taxable real estate. The Indians own all the land, conse quently taxes on personal property will be very high, but the peo-ple are determined on state-hood and will certainly ratify the Constitution.

Through the influence of a negro loving president they were forced to eliminate from the Constitution the "Jim Crow" law, (providing seperate coaches and waiting rooms for whites and blacks,) but the first Legislature, of course will regulate that. Such ruling has certainly given the Republicans a black-eye in this state.

The socialists, have a complete state ticket and are filling in the minor candidates rapidly. They cannot hope to win, as their doc-trine is too radical, but they are
